This book is an autobiography on Bee Smiths life. Bee started writing this autobiography in March 2013, and it took almost three years to complete it. The book is about the struggles Bee faced mostly because she developed amnesia with regard to these school essays, which must have been published online between 1991 and 1996 (or whenever the internet was first made available to the public). Bee lived what she refers to as a psychological thriller in discovering and solving the mystery that was haunting her all her life, and this book is all about her travels, living and working abroad, her strange relationship with her boyfriends, the friendships she tried making along the way and eventually becoming a single mom and having her beautiful daughter in her life now. It is the first book Bee has ever written, and she chose to call it The Exhausted Word due to the fact she suffers from a mild case of chronic fatigue because of depression and anxiety from living this psychological thriller. Bee doesnt associate herself as a writer and doesnt ever aspire to be one, but she felt a need to document her story for the sake of the children and for them to learn not to make the same mistakes as she did.
